

Multiple Choice (10 marks)

1. What type of media has the primary objective to get the attention of shoppers and to stimulate them to make a purchase? (Examples include point-of-purchase displays and packaging.)
 - (a) Broadcast media.
 - (b) Interactive media.
 - (c) In-store media.
 - (d) Support media.
2. Which of the following types of advertising is being used when a retail store agrees to share advertising costs for a consumer product with the national distributor of the product?
 - (a) Trade advertising
 - (b) Industrial advertising
 - (c) National advertising
 - (d) Cooperative advertising
3. What is the term for an organisation that adapts to changes in the environment by quickly responding to shifts in supply and demand conditions?
 - (a) Opportunistic organisation
 - (b) Enterprising organisation
 - (c) International organisation
 - (d) Agile organisation
4. In conducting international market research, there are three types of equivalence. Which of the following is NOT one of the equivalences?
 - (a) Conceptual equivalence.
 - (b) Market equivalence.
 - (c) Functional equivalence.
 - (d) Translation equivalence.
5. In the Westley and MacLean model of communication, which role describes the way in which the public obtain or receive the message?
 - (a) The advocacy role

- (b) The channel's role
- (c) The gatekeeper role
- (d) The behavioural role

True / False (10 marks)

Answer True or False

- 6. True or False: Coca-Cola is recognized as the most effective organization in engaging with customers online due to its extensive social media presence.
- 7. True or False: Posting anonymous comments on blogs is an effective strategy for countering negative online information about an organization.
- 8. True or False: PEST stands for Political, Environmental, Strategic, and Technological factors affecting business decisions.
- 9. True or False: A company may become insolvent if it cannot pay creditors in full after the realization of its assets.
- 10. True or False: Writing skills are not considered a recognized key skill of management.

Long Form Response (20 marks)

Answer each question with a clear and complete explanation.

- 11. Discuss the concept of work-life balance, its significance in the modern workplace, and analyze how technological advancements and increased work intensity have influenced this dynamic.
- 12. Discuss the concept of viral campaigns in guerrilla marketing. Analyze how peer-to-peer communication impacts the effectiveness of these campaigns in promoting products or services.

End of Paper