

Multiple Choice (10 marks)

1. Which of the following considers states to be the primary actors in international relations?
 - (a) Realism
 - (b) Idealism
 - (c) Liberalism
 - (d) None of the above
2. The realm of policy decisions concerned primarily with relations between the United States and the rest of the world is known as
 - (a) terrorism policy.
 - (b) economic policy.
 - (c) foreign policy.
 - (d) international policy.
3. In which year was the seminal Human Development Report published?
 - (a) 1987
 - (b) 1997
 - (c) 1994
 - (d) 2004
4. Which of the following is essential to societal security?
 - (a) Sovereignty.
 - (b) Identity.
 - (c) All of these options.
 - (d) Hegemonic ethnicity.
5. Growing tension between the United States and the Soviet Union resulted in a policy that John Foster Dulles referred to as
 - (a) "mutual assured destruction."
 - (b) "brinkmanship."
 - (c) "realism."
 - (d) "not in my backyard."

True / False (10 marks)

Answer True or False

6. True or False: Liberal Internationalists believe that international institutions enable the US to fully isolate itself from global engagements.
7. True or False: Motivational realism posits that greedy states are driven by a desire to increase wealth, spread ideology, and inherent human greed.
8. True or False: The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) is considered the most important international organization for global governance.
9. True or False: Inefficient balancing or buckpassing by states can lead to a more competitive international system.
10. True or False: Realists argue that the international system is characterized by anarchy, distinguishing it from the structured domestic system.

Long Form Response (20 marks)

Answer each question with a clear and complete explanation.

11. Discuss the argument by Braun and Chyba (2004) regarding how indigenous nuclear programs may render proliferation safeguards obsolete. Provide examples and analyze the implications of this perspective.
12. Discuss the economic transformations that occurred as a result of World War I and analyze how these shifts contributed to the United States' emergence as a global financial power.

End of Paper